PRESIDENT'S REPORT:

Staff Advisory Committee to the President:

President Benson announced the creation of the Staff Advisory Committee to the President (SAC). The SAC will be comprised of 14 non-instructional staff members who will advise President Benson on important staff issues.

Inaugural MBA Class Celebration:

President Benson spoke at the celebration for the inaugural MBA class on August 13. Twenty-three students completed the program. Other speakers for the event were Provost George Hynd, Dean Alan Shao (School of Business), Tommy Baker (Member, School of Business Board of Governors), and Matthew McDonnell (MBA student).

Mike Veeck, President of the Charleston Riverdogs, delivered the keynote speech. Following the celebration, Tommy Baker hosted a reception at his home on Sullivan’s Island.

Convocation:

Convocation was held on Monday, August 22, to welcome the Class of 2015, which is the largest class ever – 2,350 freshmen and 750 transfer students.

The structure of the program this year changed. Rather than gather in the Carolina First Arena (now the TD Arena), the students broke into 115 small groups and took part in conversations led by the faculty. Following the small group conversations, the students and faculty gathered in the Cistern Yard where President Benson and Provost Hynd welcomed them to the College. President Benson reminded them to be good neighbors within the neighborhoods that surround the College.

Honors College:

President Benson informed the Board that the Honors College received over 1,300 applications, an increase of 30 percent over last year. The average SAT score is 1358, 18 points higher than last year. Five students made a perfect score on at least one segment of the SAT, and 20 students made a perfect score on at least one segment of the ACT.

Twenty-five percent of the incoming students in the Honors College will begin with a number of credits to qualify as sophomores.
Diversity Strategic Plan:

President Benson reported that the Diversity Strategic Plan will be the first of its kind at the College. The Plan will help to achieve the institutional diversity goals outlined in the College’s Strategic Plan.

The President’s Commission on Diversity, Access, Equity, and Inclusion has 30 members who are divided into six different task forces that consider difficult diversity issues. Topics include minority and international student access and academic success; minority faculty and staff access, recruitment, retention, and advancement; campus climate; and gender issues.

After a great deal of work, the Commission developed a draft Diversity Strategic Plan and sought feedback from constituencies on campus. President Benson and the Executive Team have been reviewing the revised draft and plan to solicit feedback from key community members before meeting with Commission representatives to discuss how to best finalize the plan for review and approval by the Board of Trustees. Our goal must be to find a way to meet the plan’s goals within our limited financial resources.

It was the Commission’s recommendation that led to the creation of the Staff Advisory Committee to the President.

And finally, President Benson recognized John Bello-Ogunu and Joe Kelly, co-chairs of the President’s Commission, for their leadership and implementation of the Diversity Strategic Plan.

Performance-Based Funding Model for Higher Education:

At the April Board meeting, President Benson described Governor Haley’s work to create a new performance funding system for the public four-year colleges and universities.

The proposal, now called accountability-based funding, is being developed by five different task forces of the Commission on Higher Education. The College of Charleston is represented on all five task forces by Bev Diamond, Brian McGee, Bobby Marlowe, Shirley Hinson, and Steve Osborne. Their work should be completed within the next few weeks.

North Campus/Lowcountry Graduate Center:

Over the past year, we have been working on a new approach to our work in North Charleston and to make the North Campus an important part of our plans for facilitating economic development in the Lowcountry.

For some time, we have had two different task forces exploring exciting new initiatives at the Lowcountry Graduate Center and the North Campus, involving undergraduate, graduate, and non-degree programs for both traditional and non-traditional students.

Comprehensive Campaign:

President Benson reported that he has been traveling around the country to meet with small groups of the College’s key stakeholders to obtain their feedback for our draft case statement. All attendees are sent a draft of the case statement and summary of the Strategic Plan prior to the briefings.
President Benson has conducted briefings in Atlanta, Virginia, New Jersey, Connecticut, New York City, Rochester, and three in the Charleston area. Other briefings are scheduled over the next three weeks.

The briefings are going well and excellent feedback has been received. Assuming all confidential interviews are completed prior to the December holidays, we anticipate receiving the consultant’s findings and recommendations sometime in January. George Watt will share what we’ve learned with the Institutional Advancement Committee at the January Board meeting.

Strategic Plan:

The Strategic Plan was approved by the Board of Trustees in October 2009. It continues to be the College’s guide for institutional decision-making and describes the envisioned future of the College of Charleston.

Due to recent changes in the financial model, funds are not available to implement the plan. Next week, we will begin to evaluate and revise the plan so that it better aligns with our available resources.

Passing of Neal Baker:

President Benson announced the passing of Neal Baker on Wednesday. Mr. Baker was an extraordinary and loyal supporter of the College for more than 25 years. Also, he was a generous supporter of the men’s golf program, the Cougar Club, and the President’s Strategic Initiative Fund.

The Meeting Street Courtyard outside the TD Arena is named in honor of Neal and Elizabeth Baker.

President Benson will attend his funeral at 11:00 a.m. this morning.

However, he noted that the BEA urged an air of caution given the most recent unemployment numbers.

The Committee was updated on the positions being cut as required to meet the reduction needed to balance the budget for FY 2012. - Institutional Advancement – one staff position
- President’s Division – one staff position

She stated that the students are the heart of the College of Charleston and expressed appreciation to the Division of Student Affairs for their support of the students.

She reported a smooth opening this year despite triple assignments in the residence halls.

Departmental Update – Multicultural Student Programs and Services:
Teresa Smith provided an overview of the department’s services and resources provided for students to develop connections with other students, faculty and staff, and to promote success in their academic, social, and career interests. Collaborative efforts within the Division of Student Affairs and with other departments across campus make over 60 programs possible, including summer residential academic programs such as SPECTRA and SCAMP. Victor Wilson clarified that Multicultural Student Programs and Services promotes student diversity and closely monitors and addresses the needs of individual students and specific student organizations while the Office of Institutional Diversity has an entirely different mission in promoting institutional diversity for the entire campus.

John Campbell presented a Housing Update:
Despite the challenge to provide housing for the increased freshmen enrollment, the need was addressed with some triplet arrangements in College Lodge doubles and adding a bed in some of the four-person suites in Berry and McAlister residence halls. The next few weeks will provide some room assignment changes, and most of the added beds are not anticipated to still be in place after the fall semester ends.

International Awards Received for Student Affairs Booklet:
The 17th Annual Communicator Awards recognized the booklet for Excellence in Design and also Distinction in Photography.

AD HOC COMMITTEE ON INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY:
Committee members present: Trustees Frank Gadsden (chair), John Busch, Cherry Daniel, and Dwight Johnson. Others present: Andrew Bergstrom, Director of Web Strategies, Information Technology; Priscilla Burbage, VP for Fiscal Services; Deanna Caveny, Associate Provost for Faculty Affairs; Lynn Cherry, Speaker of the Faculty Senate; Ross Kressel, President of the Student Government Association; and Monica Lavin, Director of Teaching, Learning & Technology.

Trustee Gadsden presented the committee report:

A legislatively required risk assessment related to use of electronic signature transactions was conducted for IT by the external firm Accuvant. The primary applications utilizing electronic signatures are e-procurement (SciQuest) and credit card processing (Touchnet.) A ‘clean’ report was made by Accuvant. As we implement additional e-signature applications, IT must finish replacement of previous generation wireless service; change the College culture to eliminate the sharing of userid and passwords; implement additional security alerts in event logs; firewall off unsecured departmental networks; cultivate a risk management mindset; formalize and document processes.

It has initiated efforts to reduce financial and institutional risk associated with identify theft by starting the implementation of a data loss prevention program. Under the auspices of the Executive Steering Committee, policies and procedures will be developed to guide actions when potential data breaches are discovered.

The BATTERY project is essentially completed and into production mode save for Famis, the facilities management application with support for space management, capital projects, and maintenance management that kicked off August 1 and that will take more than a year to complete. Initially the project is struggling for lack of vendor strength in implementation methodology. Checkpoint is the ‘operationalizing’ of intake and prioritization of new work tasks arising out of the BATTERY project. A list of 46 project requests has been vetted, prioritized, and sent to IT for implementation; half a dozen are underway. BATTERY is on-budget.

SunGard Higher Education (our vendor for the Banner applications and more) is being acquired by the holding company of smaller competitor Datatel which offers a very different ERP product to smaller colleges and community colleges. The deal will take several months to be consummated, resulting in a “combined company.” It is anticipated there will be no major effects in the short-to-medium time frame.
Google Applications accounts have been established by most all the students. Faculty/staff accounts (less email) are scheduled to be available in September; and alumni accounts will be available in January 2012. Edisto will be decommissioned this Fall.

iPads are proliferating at CofC and the teaching, Learning & Technology (TLT) department in IT has been actively coaching the faculty on best pedagogical uses. Several academic departments are utilizing iPads in large numbers to good effect. The CofC Tour app is a good example.

The Campus Master Plan Update consultants have noted that “IT is severely underfunded;” encouraged more use of video in conjunction with contemporary, highly flexible classrooms and learning spaces designed and equipped for blended learning; encouraged TLT to further develop existing strengths in instructional design; and cited technology prominently in its short list of Goals.
