We are proud that Andrew has returned to the College to finish his degree.

In addition, he thanked Greg Fisher from Information Technology for being available to assist anyone with IPAD/technology issues.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT:
1. Fundraising Update

“As you know, we raised more money last fiscal year than in any previous year in the College’s history. We are off to another good start through the first quarter of the current fiscal year with new commitments totaling $2.5 million.

I want to briefly share a few highlights:

• We have secured a $500,000 commitment from friends Harry and Reba Huge to support study abroad programs, scholarships in the Honors College, and student awards in the School of the Arts.

• Another recent gift comes to us from Boeing. A $200,000 grant from Boeing will support the Farm-to-School Public Health Initiative headed by Olivia Thompson, Assistant Professor in the Department of Health and Human Performance.

The project involves partnering with two local elementary schools and other organizations to promote the benefits of healthy eating and to get children involved in growing and supporting locally grown food. Boeing previously provided a $120,000 grant during the project’s pilot phase.
This grant is yet another example of the strength of the College’s relationship with Boeing. That relationship is a result of our deliberate and coordinated efforts to engage with Boeing on both academic and community-related initiatives. I recently sent all of you an update on our other Boeing initiatives.

- The final gift I want to mention is a result of the generosity of CofC parents Craig and Frances Lindner. Their recent gift of $192,000 will support the Parent’s Fund, scholarships, the Department of Communication, and the President’s Strategic Initiatives Fund. This brings their total giving to the College over the last 2 ½ years to approximately $800,000.

  Two weeks ago, I traveled to Cincinnati to personally thank the Lindners for their continued support and to discuss other potential philanthropic opportunities.

All of the gifts I have mentioned count toward our Comprehensive Campaign. To date, we have raised a total of $37 million toward our working campaign goal of $125 million.

You will hear more about fundraising results and campaign progress from Marie Land in her committee report.

2.  Gov. Haley’s Higher Education Conference/ABF

As you know, Governor Haley held a conference on higher education on October 10th. The event took place at the South Carolina State Museum in Columbia.

In addition to College staff who attended, I want to thank Trustees Don Belk, Jeff Schilz, Greg Padgett, Marie Land, John Busch, and Frank Gadsden for representing the College at the conference. A special thanks to Jeff Schilz for working with the Governor’s Office to help organize the conference. I had a previously scheduled family commitment and was unable to attend.

You will recall that Governor Haley, within days of taking office, made it known that she would seek legislative support to develop a new funding model for public higher education. The Governor’s proposal for Accountability-Based Funding would tie each institution’s annual state appropriation to measurements such as job placement, graduation rates, tuition levels, and contributions to economic development.

Over the past two years, in collaboration with CHE and the other university presidents, Brian McGee and I were heavily involved in developing a possible framework for this new funding model.

At the conference the Governor indicated that she would continue to seek legislative support for her proposal in the next session of the General Assembly. But it’s unclear how well such reforms will be received by the legislature, particularly if the new funding model requires increases in recurring funding to colleges and universities.

Shirley Hinson will be keeping a close eye on this and related issues in Columbia in the weeks and months ahead, and will keep us all informed.
In the meantime, the College must continue to plan for a future that does not rely on new state appropriations. We must continue on the path toward greater self-sufficiency.

3. Strategic Plan/Annual Plan

Our new annual planning and budgeting cycle will help to ensure that we remain focused on the implementation of our Strategic Plan and that our annual priorities remain closely linked to available resources.

As you know, our new year-long planning and budgeting cycle begins with the revision of the Strategic Plan in the fall semester. We have completed a draft revision of the plan. The changes are minor in size; but major in importance.

The draft will be sent to you for review and comment within a week or two. In addition, the revisions will be shared with faculty, staff, and student leaders before those changes are finalized and included as part of the updated Strategic Plan. This process will be concluded well before the end of the current semester.

After the Strategic Plan is updated, our next steps will be the development of an annual action plan and then a budget to support that plan. The final step is the establishment of tuition and fees to support the budget.

4. Fall Family Weekend/Conversations with the Presidents

Our Annual Fall Family Weekend was held the last weekend of September.

The weekend consisted of a variety of events and activities, including movie screenings, musical performances, campus and neighborhood tours, tours of the President’s House, and presentations about College programs and initiatives.

On Sunday of that weekend, I spoke at an event called “Conversation with the Presidents.” This has become an annual feature of Family Weekend. The President of the Student Government Association and I discussed our plans and activities for the College and the student body. We also took questions from parents and students for about an hour.

I want to thank SGA President Erica Arbetter for participating in this event.

I also want to thank the Division of Student Affairs and the Office of Student Life for organizing the Fall Family Weekend. It is a huge undertaking with a lot of moving parts. And it is a critically important weekend… one that strengthens the relationships between our parents and the College.

5. Revitalize America Conference

On October 1st, Congressman Tim Scott held his Revitalize America Conference in the Stern Center Ballroom. I opened the conference by welcoming our guests and highlighting the important role that the College plays and can play in the economies of the Lowcountry and the State of South Carolina.

The conference brought a number of high-profile government and business leaders to our campus. In addition to Congressman Scott, speakers included Josef Kerscher, President of BMW Manufacturing; and Jim McNerney, CEO and Chairman of Boeing. This was Jim McNerney’s first public appearance in Charleston since Boeing’s arrival in South Carolina. We were honored and quite pleased that the College played a central role in his first official visit to the Holy City.

The event also drew considerable media attention. The Post and Courier had four reporters and photographers covering the conference.

My thanks to Bobby Marlowe and Jody Encarnation in the Office of Economic Development for organizing the College’s participation in this event.

6. Neville Isdell Visit

On October 4th and 5th, Neville Isdell, the former CEO and Chairman of The Coca-Cola Company, visited campus.

Jane and I hosted a dinner at the President’s House for Neville and his wife Pamela. Their visit was made possible by John and Dianne Culhane, whom all of you know through their broad support of the College. The Culhanes are both former Coca-Cola executives and friends of the Isdells.

The next day, Neville spoke at the business School on connected-capitalism – which involves business, government, and civil society working together for the greater good. That event was co-hosted by the School of Business and the Honors College.

7. Envision South Carolina

I want to tell you about a new initiative I am involved with on behalf of the College. It is called Envision South Carolina.

The initiative is an innovative, multimedia project aimed at identifying ideas and strategies that can help South Carolina achieve world-class status in education, business, technology, the arts, science, and other areas.

The initiative is the brainchild of Phil Noble, a former U.S. Senate policy analyst and President of Phil Noble & Associates, which is an international public affairs consulting firm. Phil is also a member of our Department of Communication Advisory Council.

We have already reached out to nearly 60 high-profile leaders, thinkers, entertainers, athletes, and others who are either from South Carolina or have close ties to the state. Each invitee is being asked to participate in a series of video and print interviews about what South Carolina must do to become more globally competitive.
Ultimately, we expect these interviews will be distributed and promoted by media partners and others all across the state, in both print and electronic form.

The initiative also includes a conference to be held next spring on our campus.

8. IT/Distance Education Taskforce

Yesterday, the Academic Affairs Committee heard an update on the work of the Distance and Online Education Task Force, which will make its final report to the Provost in December. I won’t steal Cherry Daniel’s thunder, but I want you to know that I place a high priority on completing the work of this task force and moving forward with the execution of the distance education plan they develop.

I also am sensitive to the fact that, as we heard yesterday in the Budget Committee meeting, our IT infrastructure isn’t ready to support a rapid expansion of our online education offerings. Going forward, we will need to make certain that our plans for distance and online education are carefully linked to our planning and budgeting process and our existing IT assets.

9. Blacklock Lift/Accessibility Study

On Tuesday, the College dedicated a new wheelchair-accessible lift at Blacklock House on Bull Street. Blacklock, of course, houses our Alumni Relations office and is a venue for many College events throughout the year.

The project was funded by the College of Charleston Foundation and Aramark.

This was no ordinary construction project. Blacklock is designated as a National Historic Landmark, so the lift had to be designed and built in a way that would not compromise the historical significance of the house or the out buildings.

If you have not yet seen the tower that houses the lift, I encourage you to do so. It looks like it has always been there!

This project demonstrates that we can make our historic campus more accessible. To that end, the College is conducting a campus wide accessibility study. The last one was conducted in 1992.

We hired ISES Corporation of Stone Mountain, Georgia, to do the study. The consultants have assessed every building on campus looking for physical accessibility barriers.

We expect the final report by the end of the month.

10. Lockheed Martin Reception

On Wednesday evening, I had the opportunity to attend a reception on the USS Yorktown, which was sponsored by Lockheed Martin. The reception focused on South Carolina’s role in the new F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program and the economic and military benefits of this next generation of aircraft.

The explanation of the F-35’s capabilities was impressive, but what I found most important for our purposes is the potential of the aerospace industry in Charleston.

Already, the AAI Corporation’s in Goose Creek is a supplier for the F-35 program. The program has 3,900 suppliers in 45 states. In the future, primarily because of Boeing, other aerospace suppliers will cluster in the Charleston area.

The College of Charleston should be a supplier of knowledge workers to every aerospace corporation that locates or relocates in the Lowcountry. The future of the College and the future of Charleston will be determined in part by how well we do this job.

11. Dean Searches and General Counsel Search

I want to update you on our dean and general counsel searches.

Trisha Folds-Bennett has been named Dean of the Honors College, effective January 1st. Trisha has served as the associate dean and coordinator of the nationally competitive awards program for the Honors College since 2006.

Under the strong leadership of retiring Dean John Newell, our Honor’s College has become a point of pride and a signature asset for the College. We are confident that Trisha will continue to build on the strong foundation that she and John have established together.

Our search for Dean of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences is making good progress. We have constructed a short list of finalists who will soon be on-campus for interviews.

Our searches for Dean of the Library and Dean of the School of Languages, Cultures, and World Affairs are being planned. We intentionally staggered the timelines for our dean searches in order to maximize the engagement of our campus community in each search process.

And, as you already know, we have concluded the search for a new General Counsel. You met her at last night’s Oyster Roast and she was introduced earlier in the meeting.

Kathryn Bender will officially join the College on November 1st as Senior Vice President for Legal Affairs and General Counsel.”

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES
ON
SPORTS CONFERENCE AFFILIATION

October 19, 2012

RESOLVED, if negotiations are successfully concluded with CAA, the President is also empowered and authorized to terminate the College’s affiliation with the Southern Conference and to cause to be paid to the Southern Conference such exit fees as may be applicable and to forego, as appropriate, such share or shares of surplus revenue from the Southern Conference as the College may otherwise be entitled to if it had remained a member of the Southern Conference; and

RESOLVED, that the President and senior management of the College may do all things reasonably necessary and appropriate to implement this Resolution.

Trustee Lee Mikell seconded the motion and Chair Padgett proceeded with a discussion of the Resolution which would authorize the President and Athletic Director of the College to commence negotiations with the Colonial Athletic Association for the purpose of pursuing a suitable agreement, resulting in the affiliation of the College with the Colonial Conference. Chair Padgett noted that if negotiations are successful, the Board will need to ratify the final negotiated document.

Chair Padgett asked all Trustees for their remarks.

Following comments regarding the issue, Trustee Jeff Schilz recommended an amendment to the motion noting that any contract would need the approval of the full Board. Trustee Philip Bell endorsed the idea.

[Caroline Cleveland joined the meeting at 10:20 a.m.]

Following the discussion, Trustee Lee Mikell made the motion, seconded by Trustee Dwight Johnson, to call the question.

Chair Padgett noted that the “call the question” motion is not debatable and proceeded to a vote on the motion. The Chair called for the yeas and nays, and the motion to “call the question” was unanimously approved by voice vote.

Next, Chair Padgett moved ahead to a vote on the amended Resolution on the table entitled “Sports Conference Affiliation”. He noted that a vote in favor of this motion would authorize the President of the College to enter into negotiations with the Colonial Athletic Association, as previously discussed, and to come back to the full Board for approval. The Chair called for the yeas and nays, and the amended Resolution as presented below was approved by a show of hands (12 yeas and 5 nays).

COLLEGE OF CHARLESTON

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

BUDGET ADJUSTMENTS

WHEREAS, College management has reviewed its projections of revenues and expenses for the year 2012-2013 and, based on that review, has recommended certain reallocations and adjustments to the budget previously approved by the Board; and

WHEREAS, those recommended reallocations and adjustments were presented to the Board’s Budget and Finance Committee and were determined to be reasonable and appropriately supported by College management.

Steve Osborne updated the Committee on the state budget. The BEA will meet in November to develop its revenue estimates for 2013-2014. Current trends point to a 2-3% growth for 2013-2014. The revenue associated with this level of growth would provide very little new revenue for allocation in the budget process once annualizations are addressed. The good news for the current fiscal year is that revenue collections are on target which means that a mid-year budget cut is not likely.

Due to time constraints, a scheduled CRDA economic update was tabled until the January Board Meeting.

• 72 George Street – The renovation is complete.

• 74 George Street – The renovation is complete.

• Center for Social Science Research – Renovation work is underway with an expected completion date of November 2012. The occupancy date is expected to be January 2013.

• Arena Marquee – Staff and the project architect met with the City regarding potential tree removal in order to achieve appropriate sightlines. The BAR will have to review this request, which cannot be staff approved. The pilings will have to be rebuilt in the new location. The College will not pay for the redesign fees. It has yet to be determined who will pay for the relocation expenses.

• Dixie Plantation Field Stations – State approval to move forward with final design was delayed in August when the Joint Bond Review Committee decided to carry over all projects on its agenda. Final approvals are expected by the end of this month.

• New Science Center Build-out – Construction documents are being reviewed internally and the project is still expected to be completed by January 2014.

• Rita Hollings Science Center Renovation – Staff is in the process of negotiating the contracts with the construction management company. There was discussion about the fact that the lack of available swing space prohibits a complete rebuild. The renovation must occur in phases.

Committee members recommended providing the contractor with an academic calendar, so that the work schedule can accommodate critical times of the year for students.

Once this has been provided, the College will move forward with the design process.

Marketing and Communications:
Mike Haskins reported that a YouTube website has been created for the Board of Trustees and senior management.

Other Business:

The Huron consulting report will be presented by Huron to the joint meeting later this morning of the Ad Hoc Committee for Information Technology with the Budget and Finance Committee. The background of the Huron study was briefly shared.

IT is about to launch a TechQual web-based survey of all faculty, students and staff regarding their opinions of connectivity and access, technology and collaboration services, and support and training. The TechQual survey is designed by practitioners, informed by research, and built for the higher education community. It is a standardized survey that has been used by tens of universities for several years. Responses are collected by TechQual and are completely anonymous. IT will receive a report from TechQual summarizing the survey results; in turn, IT will share summary results with the campus community. We will be able to compare IT at the College with other universities, and also track our progress year over year going forward.

Based on new funding available to IT at July 20112:
1) Internet capacity has been increased from 390 Mbps to 2.1Gbps – more than a five-fold increase.
2) A major project to completely equip the campus and ancillary locations with wireless service is defined, with a target completion date of early 2015. The recurring funding will be used to increase capacity in the out years. Reliable sources predict an 18-fold increase in demand for wireless capacity in five years!
3) Guided by faculty preferences and priorities as expressed by academic chairs, IT will be equipping at least 20 classrooms with new or upgraded technology by July, 2013. This work will continue each year.
4) Quicker replacement of end-of-life equipment deployed throughout the campus will gradually allow us to shift from remedial to preventive maintenance. This will reduce the number of unplanned outages experienced by our users and increase efficiency for both users and the IT staff.

Network Engineering has had some hiring success with more anticipated soon. We have a huge backlog of work with which to cope.

Andrew Bergstrom demonstrated the College mobile app on his iPad.

Evolution of the Ad Hoc Committee to a standing Committee on Information Technology was discussed favorably, the committee serving as a major conduit between IT and the Trustees. A resolution to this effect will be prepared for consideration by the Board at the January meeting.
